ExActTitan

Location and functions of the system components

Four flame detectors sense all fires and explosions in the crew compartment.

The control unit controls the operation of the fire protection system.

The user interface unit gives information about the system's operation, is used for system maintenance and allows a manual discharge.

Two extinguishing cylinders supply extinguishing agent to the crew compartment.

The heat profile detector senses all fires in the engine compartment.

The alarm unit gives visual and audible alarm signals and allows a manual discharge.

Two extinguishing cylinders supply extinguishing agent to the engine compartment.

V 1.3